Introduction

The promotional material plan includes a conference poster, a video, and a small brochure booklet. The A1-sized poster explains the problem space, idea and abridged process. The video is a screen recording of the functioning website which illustrates the capability and purpose of the website as a user would use. A brochure booklet would feature detailed information about the website including its innovative features, walk-through of website, screenshots and other relevant information.

The video will be recorded using a software (Quicktime) of the website in use. The key features demonstrated in this video include: inbox system, skill search, etc. The A1-sized poster will briefly outline the said key features and give a general introduction to the system.
